Who's your Tailor?

Exclusive Local Representative of
Ed. V. Price & Company
Merchant Tailors, Chicago

Ever stop to compare your local tailor's facilities with those of our tailors?

He doesn't buy his woolens direct from the mill nor his trimmings from the manufacturer, does he?

Our tailors do—besides having a modern equipment a thousand times larger.

Such facilities mean buying material lower—saving all middlemen's profits—and the production of better garments at a great deal less cost.

And you derive the benefit.

Step in and see samples of woolens for fall and winter—the finest assortment we've ever displayed.

MRS. McCONNELL DIES.

After a Very Short Illness at Her Home at Cimarron of Paralysis of the Brain.

Mrs. Frank M. McConnell of Cimarron, after an illness of twenty-four hours of paralysis of the brain, died at her home at 11:30 Saturday evening, Dec. 29, 1906, of paralysis of the brain.

Funeral services were held at the home Monday morning and the body was escorted to this city by a number of friends of the family and interment made in the Springer cemetery at 2 o'clock in the afternoon alongside her daughter, Mrs. Anna Nichols, who preceded her to the grave by eleven months.

Deceased had many friends who mourn her loss, and they all extend their most heartfelt sympathies to the sorrowing husband in his hours of bereavement.

WILL EXTERMINATE THE YAQUI INDIANS.

Galveston, Texas, Jan. 4.—A war of extermination is to be waged in Mexico against the treacherous Yaqui Indians, according to a dispatch received here from Mexico City. Gen. Diaz has issued orders that he must have five dead Yaquis for every white man killed and the Rorales have been reinforced for the purpose of inaugurating a vigorous campaign against the bloodthirsty Indians. No quarter is to be given, it is reported, and every redskin captured will be shot. Fifty Mexicans and one American have been slain recently by the Yaquis and the frequent occurrence of these massacres has actuated the army officials in determining to wipe out the tribe.

Captured Big Wolf

On Tuesday of last week, C. R. Elliot, the hunter and trapper, caught a large grey wolf on Landin D. Moore's place, about 15 miles southeast of Raton. This is the male of the pair that for twenty years have been ranging in this country, and have during that period killed thousands of dollars worth of cattle and other stock. His mate was shot and roped about two years ago by Gus Brackett, who also caught the six or seven pups, the total bounties on which aggregated nearly $150. For the present catch the bounties may amount to more than $100. These wolves were among the largest, most formidable and most wary ever seen in this section. They were so old that the grey of their fur had turned to white, giving to them quite an unusual appearance. The capture would probably not have been made had not a slight "skit" of snow obliterated the human scent left by Mr. Elliot in the vicinity of the traps. Even after having been trapped, the powerful animal would very likely have wrenched himself loose had not each of his forepaws become fastened in separate traps, thus extending his front legs out to the limit and giving him no chance to force himself loose. These two great animals have long been a terror to the people and the stock of the surrounding country. It was no stunt at all for them to kill a steer. An effort is being made to secure the animal and have him photographed for exhibition, after which he will be killed and his skin stuffed as a trophy by the Hunters, Trappers and Traders Association of Northern New Mexico, as this region was the wild beasts' habitat.

At the Denn-Arizona shaft in Lowell, Ariz., 8,700 pounds of dynamite exploded on Friday last. Thirteen men at work in the shaft at the time escaped without injury.
